

REMOTE RECRUITING & HIRING TOOLKIT:

Consistent Virtual Communication with Applicants

Content Level: ENHANCED

Regular contact with and updates for job applicants—a “high touch” communication system—helps to keep applicants interested in your open positions and to retain them in your hiring process. Using a high touch approach is especially important for highly effective candidates, those in hard-to-staff roles, and/or candidates of color. For example, communications could include email updates, quick surveys to indicate continued interest in a position, or optional conversations with current staff to learn more about working in the school. For example, Pittsburgh Public Schools re-wrote the auto email that is sent to the applicant when they complete their online application. The message addresses the current COVID-19 situation and advises an applicant what to expect at this time.
